For Families Affected by the Government Shutdown

If your family is experiencing financial disruption due to the federal government shutdown and you are unable to make the fourth tuition payment (due tomorrow, November 1), Cedarville will defer late fees and interest charges on the account. Please contact the Cashiers Office to let them know about your situation and arrange the deferral.

When you reach out, provide your student's full name and student ID so we can make the necessary account adjustments.

Contact Information:

Phone: 937-766-7825

P.S. In order for the Cashiers Office to discuss your student's account, you will need to provide the privacy permission code word when you contact us by email or phone. If you do not have a code, the section below reviews the steps to setting up this access with your student.

Reminder: How To Access Your Student's Records

In accordance with the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA), Cedarville University cannot release your student's records to you without your student's prior consent. To set up your access to your student's records, you will need to ask your student to complete the following steps:

- Sign in to myCU.
- Click on Grant Parent Access.
- From this page, your student can grant you select or complete access to finances, financial aid, academic records, and more.

These simple steps ensure that you have access to your student's records throughout the year! You can learn more about Cedarville's parental access policies in the Parent Resource Guide.
